A FUGITIVE FOUND

And Brought Back to Answer for Murder. In a difficulty in Knott county, some Hays killed Martin Dingus, and fearing the strong arm of the law made tracks for the West. He was subsequently indicted by the Grand Jury of Knott county for murder, but he has been a fugitive from justice since the commission of the crime. A short time since, however, Wilburn Hall, Esq., a practicing attorney of Hindman, the county-seat of Knott, learned of the fugitive's location in Kansas. Communicating with Gov. Knott as to his knowledge, he was appointed a special agent to bring him back to Kentucky. Accompanied by Lewis Hays, county clerk of Knott, and cousin and brother-in-law of Daniel Hays the criminal, Mr. Hall went to Kansas about 10 that State. He was working as section boss on the railroad at that place, which position he had satisfactorily filled for about three leaves Rothwell on the 3rd Monday in each years, the expressed opinion of his acquainmonth at 7:30 a. m., arriving at Mt. Sterling tances being that he was a sober, industrious man. He made no resitance, nor did he demur to coming to Kentucky to stand his trial, which will come up at the November term of the Knott Circuit Court. The party, consisting of Messrs. Hall and Lewis Hays, Daniel Hays, prisoner, and Mrs. Hays, wife of the prisoner and sister of Lewis, arrived here on Friday evening last. They were guests of the Pieratt House evernight, and left Saturday morning for Knott. From what we could gather, the prisoner is anxious for his trial. The witnesses have been spirited away or died, and the Commonwealth will not be able to present a strong case against him by any means.
